REVISION WORKSHEET

Day: 11

NICK DIAMOND AND THE ASSASSIN

The assassin was short and very fat with white, curly hair. He looked at me with something between horror and dismay. He raised a hand as if to prevent me from moving forward.

"No!" he shouted. "Look, Mr. Nick, I d-d-didn't murder anyone..."

Then he turned and ran.

I chased after him and that was when I discovered that I had miscalculated. I had run into the wrong store and there was a three - metre gap between his roof and mine. But I hadn't come this far to let an impossible jump and a probable fall to my death seven floors below worry me. I picked up speed and threw myself off the edge.

For a moment I hung in the air and I could feel the ground a very long way beneath me. The cold night air was rushing into me and - for a nasty moment - so was the pavement.
